VOL. III NO. 45

COLEMAN, ALBERTA, APRIL 1, 1915

$1.50 PER YEAR

AGREEMENT IS ACCEPTED BY MINERS

Vote Recorded on Monday is Emphatically in Favor of the Adoption of New Two-Year Agreement With Operators.

The miners of District 18, U. M. W. of A., voted on the new agreement on Monday last, and the result of the vote, as complete as can be secured just now, is printed below. As will be seen by the figures given, the large majority of the men are in favor of continuing at work and accepting the new agreement arranged at Calgary between their representatives and the coal operators. For the next two years, therefore, until April 1st, 1917, there will be industrial peace in the coal camps of Alberta and south-western B. C.

The figures from the different camps are as follows:

| | FOR | AGAINST |
|-------------|-----|---------|
| Lethbridge | 225 | 180 |
| Taber | 165 | 45 |
| Commerce | 65 | 50 |
| Fernie | 622 | 181 |
| Cardbendale | 150 | 27 |
| Calgary | 245 | 28 |
| Frank | 67 | 7 |
| Bellevue | 192 | 209 |
| Blairmore | 6 | 23 |
| Hillcrest | 324 | 18 |
| Coalhurst | 52 | 100 |
| Passburg | 21 | 21 |

In connection with this vote, it will be interesting to recall the returns from the above camps on November 15th, 1911, when the miners of this district voted to return to work after being on strike about eight months. Following are the figures, which, while possibly not exact, are substantially correct.

Cardbendale and Taber returns were not available before going to press:

| | FOR | AGAINST |
|-------------|-----|---------|
| Lethbridge | 183 | 28 |
| Fernie | 407 | 206 |
| Cardbendale | 202 | 87 |
| Frank | 17 | 155 |
| Bellevue | 69 | 19 |
| Blairmore | 35 | 4 |
| Hillcrest | 119 | 14 |
| Passburg | 35 | 10 |

Mrs. Pinkerton, of Regina, is visiting with Mrs. G. A. Ritchie here.

Alex Dempster, of Pincher Creek, D.D.G.M., visited the local Masonic lodge on Thursday of this week.

A congregational social will be held in connection with the Roman Catholic church here on Monday evening next in the basement of the new separate school, commencing at 8:00 p.m.

A post card received by Mayor Morrison from Mr. Timberman, of the Belgian reservists who left here for the front quite a while ago, states that he and his companions are now in the trenches in France, and so far have escaped injury.

At a meeting of the tennis club held this week the following officers were elected for the present year: President, O. E. S. Whiteside; vice president, Wm. Bullock; secretary, H. Howes Roberts; committee—Messrs. Foote, Stopford, McKeagan and Pizer.

AN UNFAIR PROPOSITION

There are a large number of names on The Bulletin's subscription list that are not in good standing. These include the names of many men who have been out of employment for months, or who have barely had enough work to keep the wolf from the door. We have not sent a bill to these people because we did not want to do so during the present hard times, nor is this item intended to apply to any such.

But on the other hand there are very many persons in and around Coleman who have not paid us a cent in two years, though the hard times have not affected their salary or income at all. We have sent statements to many of these people, but they have had about as much effect so far as a juvenile mosquito would have on a Missouri mule. This does not look like a very fair proposition to us.

Confidentially, dear delinquent reader, we need the money and we need it NOW. We would not print this item if we did not need the cash. So when you get your pay cheque on Saturday just lay aside enough to square you with the editor. You will feel better—and so will he.

FORM ANGLERS' ASSOCIATION HERE

WILL BOOST THE NEW LIQUOR ACT

All fishermen and everybody interested in that sport are asked to remember the meeting that is to be held in the dining room of the Grand Union hotel next Tuesday evening, April 6, for the purpose of considering the advisability of organizing an Anglers' Association here.

There is little doubt but that such an organization would be a benefit to the sport in this district in more ways than one. It could, for instance, deal more effectively than could any individual with the matter of urging the Government to open the fishing season earlier in the year—say, at the same time as the season opens in B. C.

So, if you are interested, or if you intend to flirt with the flippy tribe this year, just be on hand next Tuesday evening at 7:30.

The members of the local lodge of Knights of Pythias are holding a social and dance in the opera house on Friday evening of this week.

Three young people from Coleman rode up to the lake a few days ago, and upon arriving at their destination, tied their horses near the road leading up over the summit, while they went for a stroll. On their return they found that some person had turned the horses loose, and they have not been found for the hour of going to press. The animals will no doubt be located in due time, but unless they turn up pretty soon the saddles will not be worth very much.

A subscription list has been opened for the purpose of having a "send-off" and presenting with suitable mementos the Coleman boys who have joined the 13th Mounted Rifles. A committee was appointed to complete the necessary arrangements at a citizens' meeting held on Monday evening, composed of Messrs. Whiteside, Disney and Mayor Morrison. Just what form the event will take has not yet been definitely decided, nor has the exact date been set, but in the meantime the lists are in the hands of the above gentlemen and any person feeling disposed to contribute to the fund may do so at any time—the sooner the better.

Colin Groff, until recently editor-in-chief and owner of the Taber Times, has accepted a responsible position on the editorial staff of the Lethbridge Herald. Having been a co-worker with Mr. Groff on the staff of the Edmonton Journal for some time, the editor of The Bulletin knows whereof he speaks when he says that the Herald has picked a "real live one" this time. Taber's loss is Lethbridge's gain.

Miss E. McDonald, of the public school teaching staff, has been offered an excellent position in Cranbrook, B. C., and will leave in the near future for that town. Miss McDonald has been on the staff here for quite a long time and her decision to leave Coleman will be regretted by a large number of friends.

The appeal of the International Coal and Coke Co., against the assessment on part of their lands, on grounds previously mentioned in these columns, was heard on Wednesday afternoon. After hearing the company's side of the case, the council decided that the assessment should stand.

MUST USE WAR STAMPS ON APRIL 15

On and After Above Date An Additional One Cent Stamp Will Be Necessary On Letters and Post Cards.

A war stamp of one cent has been imposed on each letter and post card mailed in Canada for delivery in Canada, the United States or Mexico, and on each letter mailed in Canada for delivery in the United Kingdom and British possessions generally, and wherever the two-cent rate applies, to become effective on and from April 15th, 1915.

This war tax is to be paid by the senders by means of a war stamp for sale by post-masters and other postage stamp vendors.

Wherever possible, stamps on which the words "War Tax" have been printed should be used for prepayment of the war tax, but should ordinary postage stamps be used for this purpose they will be accepted.

This war stamp or additional stamp for war purposes should be affixed to the upper right hand portion of the address side of the envelope or post card, close to the regular postage so that it may be readily cancelled at the same time as the postage.

In the event of failure of the part of the sender through oversight or negligence to prepay the war tax on each letter or post card above specified, such letter or post card will be sent immediately to the nearest branch dead letter office.

It is essential that postage on all classes of mail matter should be prepaid by means of ordinary postage stamps. The war tax stamp will not be accepted in any case for prepayment of postage.

Current Comment

Everything in general and nothing in particular.

Poets and journalists are bawling for the youth of the country to enlist. Ten years hence if a one-legged man begs from them in the streets they will have him arrested.

The Lethbridge Herald is advocating the establishment by the Government of an antelope preserve near that city. Good scheme. The timid animals would never notice the faint traces of civilization in that vicinity.

A Montreal man has been arrested for trading with the enemy and is in custody in Liverpool. The man who trades with the enemy is a patriot compared to the chap who aids the enemy by swindling his country in army contracts.

Sam Hughes declares, in language much more expressive than elegant, that the boots worn by the Canadian soldiers are better than the regulation British army boot, and adds that "nothing in all christendom can make him change his mind." Certainly not. As the old proverb has it: "A wise man changes his mind, but a fool never does."

Back in Ottawa they have been making quite a fuss because some chap was paid $1,200 to use his influence over Sam Hughes. If there is anybody in Canada who has so much influence over the talkative Sam it would be worth the Government's while to get him to persuade our noisy war lord to go 'way back and sit down somewhere until the war is over.

Calgary Albertan: Many public men have not quite got the proper viewpoint of the newspaper. Many men believe that newspapers should reserve their criticism to things in general, and as soon as they discuss publication by name that they are "dealing in personalities," which is very bad form. No newspaper goes beyond the bounds when it criticizes the actions and conduct of a public man in his public life.

The Calgary Albertan of the 29th ult. printed a very sensible editorial under the caption of "Prohibition and Unemployment," and concluded with the remark that "in the city of Calgary $2,500,000 will be saved by absolute and total prohibition." Unfortunately for Calgary the Alberta Temperance and Moral Reform League apparently has not as much faith as the Albertan appears to have, and instead of "total and absolute prohibition" that organization is now asking the people of the Province to support "The Liquor Act," a measure which if ever it is enforced will undoubtedly create conditions more undesirable than those which exist at the present time.

A cheque for $51,300 was handed Billy Sunday, the evangelist, as his share of the gate receipts of a six week's campaign in Philadelphia. Certainly it pays to be good! Col. Goethals was paid $15,000 a year to build the Panama canal. Chief Justice White of the United States supreme court draws a $15,000 salary. Henry Ward Beecher never got more than $10,000 per annum in Plymouth church, while Lincoln got $25,000 a year for piloting the United States through the civil war. However, none of these could talk slang with Billy. Just as some we would like to ask this evangelist what he thinks about that passage of scripture in which is pointed out certain difficulties in the way of the rich man who tries to get into Heaven.

The first issue of the Searchlight, the official organ of the Alberta Temperance and Moral Reform League, contains the following: "A prominent Alberta coal mine operator said last week: 'I am interested in two coal mines, one in Crows Nest Pass, one in Drumheller. The day after pay day in Drumheller (an hotel town) 40 per cent. of our men don't show up. In Crows Nest Pass (a dry town) the day after pay day not 2 per cent. fail to return to work.'"

The editor of the Searchlight is obviously not very well informed. He will doubtless be amazed to learn that the Crows Nest Pass is not "town," and that the Alberta portion of it contains no less than seven towns and in the neighborhood of fifteen licensees.

It is to be hoped that the arguments which appear in the Searchlight from month to month in defence of the bogus "prohibition" campaign are a little more reliable than the paragraph above quoted.

WHERE THE BIG SIEGE GUNS USED BY GERMANY ARE MADE

THE WORLD FAMOUS KRUPP WORKS AT ESEN

A Gigantic Organization that Employs Forty Thousand Workmen—Has Sixty Factories and Forty Miles of Standard Railway Lines

The present war has as yet brought no great figure among the German armories on the field. Von Moltke has yet to prove himself the peer of his famous ancestor, Von Moltke the Younger, and the German generals, though they may have displayed no pre-eminent qualities such as would range them beside their great forbears, are not yet Von Moltke's sons. Yet there is one German name that, since the outbreak of the war and for many years past whenever the German army has been mentioned, has been constantly on men's lips. That is Krupp's.

Over-sanguine as men are in the first flush of relief after a period of acute suspense, people are very willing to give the world-famous Krupp works at Essen a distant from the line of advance of the Allied armies. If armaments could only outlast the German army, then the world has given Germany her mighty siege guns, her deadly field pieces, her innumerable quick firers!

Krupp has been called the army and navy of Germany, and the town is Krupp's Krupp is Essen. The erstwhile little Westphalian town has become one gigantic factory, dominated by the genius of that man who, with his generations, built up the greatest cannon and armor industry the world has ever seen. Looking down on the town from one of the passes, the world below is lost in the Krupp's planted the colonies for aged or disabled veterans of industry, sees a forest of tall chimneys and dozens of huge, low-roofed buildings which all round the habitation of men. On a nearer approach one discovers that some sixty factories make up this gigantic organization, mostly of the kind of railroads that run together and carry their products abroad to the great world, and thirty miles of narrow lines are required as auxiliary for the shop. From the first moment of the dull boom of the guns from the testing ranges at Meppen, where artillerists, year in, year out, are trying new weapons or experimenting with the resistance of iron plate.

Forty thousand men, with 4,000 officials make up the staff of this maze of factories and workshops in normal times. One can well understand how man has increased in these anguishing days of war, when every German, great and small, realizes that the future of Germany is largely dependent on the power and number of guns which Krupp can place at the disposal of the armies of Germany and her Austrian ally. Besides this army corps of workers at Essen, Krupp's 20,000 miners, dimensioners, sanders for coal in the firm's German collieries; 15,000 hands at the rolling mills of Aachen and Gruson, and the 10,000 men of the Krupp's 10,000 men Neumied, and Engers; about 7,000 workmen at the firm's shipbuilding yard, the Germany, at Kiel; and 5,000 ore miners in Spain. It is symptomatic of the German war effort that by the German General Staff to the continuance of war" at Krupp's at the highest pressure the general commanding the army did not have greatly refrained from calling upon the Landsturm in order that the great national work may proceed unimpeded in the Iberian region where Krupp's has no concern.

THE SAME OLD PRUSSIANISM

A Comparison of the Record of 1815 and 1914

The Prussian of 1914 is very like the Prussian of 1815. There were two main reasons which Blucher had to mind when he called his army after Waterloo—to blow up the Pont d'lena and to extract from the city an indemnity of a hundred million francs. His main object in attacking the bridge was to cause, for some reason, the mine which would not explode. Then Tallyrand protested, and Blucher replied that he only hoped Tallyrand would be standing on the bridge when he crossed the Seine. Louis XVIII, threatened to go and stand on it himself if Blucher persisted in his intention. Blucher's second attempt resulted only in damage to one of the piles of the drawbridge of Prussian soldier. Then Wellington came, and there was no blowing up and no indemnity, and Blucher stayed sulking at St. Cloud.

He had the same reason to complain of the conduct of the Prussians when they were acting with him against the French in 1815. "The Prussians army started with double my heart," he said. "When we reached Paris the time they reached Paris I was as strong as they were, though I had received no great number in battle, and they no more. The system of individual plunder proved the destruction of the Prussian army, and their discipline was so bad that their numbers rapidly diminished."

Palmerston adds that "on the march to Paris Blucher's army crossed the line that Wellington meant to take, they having got there before him. The Prussians had to march on and advanced through a tract of country which the Prussians had actually started out of, and yet he found no difficulty in obtaining supplies and provisions which had not 1 their villages at the approach of the Prussians, returned the moment our troops came up, and confidence being restored, provisions followed of course."

A correspondent introduces a piece of poetry to the editor of an American newspaper in these unprintable words: "The following lines were written fifty years ago by one who for many years slept in the grave just for amusement."

STORMING OF LIEGE

Extracts from the Diary of General Leman

The Cologne tract of October 17 includes extracts from the diary of General Leman, the German commander of Liege, there is much interesting description of the terrible scenes of the German assault on the city, and the scenes of a leap of ruins. On August 14, shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon, a German officer approached to within 200 yards of the fort and began to signal to the gunners of the German artillery. Then the bombardment began, first with smaller guns, but soon after with howitzers. They fired at intervals of ten minutes. On exploding they mixed air with sputtering smoke and pungent gas, which drove the defenders farther and farther into the centre of the fort. "The whole mass rocked on its foundations. During the battle the electrical apparatus was destroyed, and the defenders were obliged to use primitive lamps. Writing of the last part of the bombardments, General Leman says:

"We heard them (the shells) coming, we occupied ourselves singing all the songs which we could remember. In the middle of one hot German attack we were singing 'Hitchy Koo.' Before we were half through the chorus the miners had got a wound in the last part of his arm."

But he sang the chorus to the finish, and did not seem to know he was hit till his comrade on the other side said:

"Don't you think you better have it bound up? It's beginning to have a mess."

The food was excellent. You can rest assured that there was even enough for all. Our arm is still tied down to a good meal—at least at the time I was hit.

It was different with the Germans. Some of the privates told us they had made for subast for days on end from crushed corn taken from the fodder.

It was different with the Germans. Some of the privates told us they had made for subast for days on end from crushed corn taken from the fodder.

The conduct of the British officers in the field has been extravagantly fine. The way they have looked after their men, too, has been splendid. No one will run down the English army.

During part of the time I was in hospital I was looked after by the Duchess of Sut "Jand." There was one poor fellow in the German army who was called to be German engineer, scurrying up into the fort to save any survivors there might be.

Recruiting in Great Britain

The loyal response with which Earl Kitchener is to the call to recruit the gunners in the villages of Great Britain may be understood so painstakingly and so long a century ago. He discovered the secret of the crucible, but could not find how to use it. After three four years of age, took up the work with faith and pertinacity, and on the development of the process built up the present vast organization. It was in 1815 that he went to Paris to bustle up to the command of the army, but he had not yet found how to use it. When he came to himself again a German master was bending over him and said, "Come, we will make you a gunner." And so he was called to be German engineer, scurrying up into the fort to save any survivors there might be.

"Victor's Crosses" for Three

Three noble fearless men of I battery, Royal Horse Artillery, have been recommended for the Victoria Cross. These are Battery Sergeant Major Darrell, Gunner Darbshire, and Artilleryman Lewis.

When their battery was surprised near Compiègne by a strong force of Germans with ten field guns and two Maxim's only three of the British canons were left. One gunner, Lewis, for instance, had sent about his last available man. From the village of Bracelet, with 13 houses, 11 men had gone, and 10 were left. Kirkgate, 28 houses, and 26 were left, while Tolson is one better, from 25 houses it has sent 26 men. The village of Upper Shad, Barvas, with 50 crofts, has 53 men with the men of the battery, who were killed or seriously wounded by one unit of the German army.

Although wounded, these men continued to fire at the one remaining gun until all but one of the German guns had been silenced. When they had got to take the hills, you had to smash the Germans that were on it. At last we got quite near—not 150 yards—but the following morning the Germans had been silent. When they had got to take the hills, you had to smash the Germans that were on it. There was one chap hit in the face with a bullet, and he was a German. "Good luck to the old regiment," says he. Then he rolled over on his back. There was a great commotion over the side of the trench with a hundred men. That German have a bullet all to himself. I saw his helmet roll back and his rifle fly up. Then I got on my knee to see what was up. A pal and a mate moved there was a smash on the side. They'd got me, too, and I rolled over and thought I was done for."

"The Conquered Order"

A graphic account of the fighting at Mons is given in a letter by Private Holohan, Royal Irish Regiment, now in Netley Hospital.

The battle opened on us at about two o'clock. The men were tired of the noise, but when the Germans came into the village up to the drawing of the Prussian soldier. Then Wellington came, and there was no blowing up and no indemnity, and Blucher stayed sulking at St. Cloud.

He had the same reason to complain of the conduct of the Prussians when they were acting with him against the French in 1815. "The Prussians army started with double my heart," he said.

The House of Hobberlin Spring Suits and Overcoats.

Lots of us—all do—get tired of the clothes we've been using all season and a new suit or overcoat is always refreshing. It gives one's other garments a chance for a rest, and clothes need rest just as men do.

For $20 or $22.50 you can buy a Hobberlin suit or light-weight overcoat made to your measure that you'll be proud of. Beautiful new season fabrics and tailored in a manner that will give complete satisfaction.

Our designers are specialists—a factor that always gives distinctiveness to a Hobberlin suit. So make your choice today.

WE FIND NO FAULT

With the Statement that "Bread is the Staff of Life," but we still maintain that meat—that is first quality meat—occupies a very prominent place in the modern bill of fare. And if Your meat comes from Lowden's it is sure to be First Quality. More than that, we are selling at prices that cannot be beaten.

Come and see.

The Sensible Thing

to do when times are hard is to make every dollar go just as far as you possibly can. A penny saved is a penny made, and if your Earning Capacity has been curtailed, then you must of necessity increase the Purchasing Power of your dollars. That is where

This Store Renders "First Aid" to the Economist.

At any time our regular prices are just as low, if not a bit lower, than you can get anywhere else, but on Pay Day we are going to again give a Special Discount of 25 Per Cent. off all our Dry Goods, Clothing, Boots and Shoes, etc. This means that 75c. will go as far here as One Dollar will elsewhere. Or in other words, we are increasing the Purchasing Power of Your Dollars to such an extent that $3.00 will now do the work of $4.00.

In your own best interests therefore you should come straight to this store as soon as you cash your Pay Cheque.
